

As a community bank, BRV believes in sharing our resources with citizens, not just customers.

Our support of groups like Friends of the Library is an investment in literacy and lifelong learning. We call it banking on our community.

We believe education strengthens everyone. That's why BRV supports scholastic programs and groups like 4-H Clubs and FFA, promoting leadership and career success through agricultural education.

We continue to learn, too. Even after 103 years in banking, each new customer teaches us something new about service.

BRV builds equity in the community
by investing in its future.

That's why BRV supports youth organizations that build self-confidence, like Valley Springs
Youth Center, Oakendell Boys' Home, Little League, and ballet.

Because when young people reach their potential, we all benefit.
